As an FSET partner, you help your community and your organization

Employers are facing a shortage of skilled workers as they try to fill positions. FSET can help. When you partner with FSET, you get tax breaks, qualified job candidates, and employees trained to fit your needs.

Qualified workers in exchange for experience

Through job shadowing, coaching, and hands-on experience, FSET participants become qualified candidates for job openings with partnering employers. We prepare participants, all at no cost to the employer.

Access to motivated job candidates

FSET participants are motivated to find the next step in their career. FSET supports them with services so they can achieve success.

Tax Incentives

When you hire someone who gets FoodShare benefits, you'll maximize your Work Opportunity Tax Credits (WOTC). It's yet another advantage of being an FSET partner!

Find and keep employees trained to fit your needs

We work with partners to train FSET participants as everything from call center representatives to construction workers, from culinary arts to welding. Call us to talk about what you need.

Help your community prosper

As an FSET partner, you'll be helping people in the Milwaukee area get the jobs they need so they can support themselves. FSET participants are looking to stand on their own—and you can help them do it.

MAXIMUS is an equal opportunity provider.

The Wisconsin FSET program helps FoodShare participants qualify for and find work.

FSET supports them in their job search with many services, including:

- Career assessment and guidance
- Basic education including GED and associates degrees
- Supportive services like child care, work clothes, and bus passes
- Training and certificates
- Valuable work experience
- Job placement

With FSET, you get trained workers who are primed for long-term job success.
